- 68,000 valuations in the system

Drzwi i Podłogi VOX is a leading retailer for doors, floors, panels and windows and part of the VOX Capital Group. Drzwi i Podłogi VOX needed to boost their process of data gathering and analysis among their Poland-wide stores.

Veolia

Gains

- 100% accurate and complete data input

- less time spent on filing in the routine checks reports

VEOLIA, which is one of the main service providers for energy managing, water and sewage treatment and waste management, needed to ensure a sustained operation of machinery by means of digitally managed daily rounds.

To suit their needs, we have created a mobile app, integrated with VEOLIA's internal procedures, which allows their employees to better plan and carry out maintenance work. The app also allowed them to eliminate paperwork and process all data in real time.

Konstal

An innovative app intended as a street lighting controller. It facilitates street light management, accounting for weather conditions and current traffic. The app is very easy to use as nearly all operations require just a single click. In addition, the app monitors key parameters of each lamppost, like voltage and temperature, which helps prevent failures. For any city this can result in a considerable saving.

Recognize.IM

It's an original image recognition technology created by the iTraff Technology company. An API Recognize.IM makes it widely available, which prompted companies world wide to reach for the technology. Its practical applications include customised dedicated apps created by marketing agencies. Among the companies which embraced the technology are Coca-cola, Pepsi, Knorr, Danone, EA Sports, BuyBox, VOX Capital Group and a reader's portal Lubimyczytac.pl, to name but a few. Currently, the technology is being developed to recognise shop display content and marketing adds in videos.

"Running a real business is exacting, daunting, repetitive work. Even in Silicon Valley".

Ben Stein / American economist, lawyer, stand-up artist

To develop our business we implement new ideas, building on current processes and multiplying duties.
But, if you become focused on painstaking work, you tend to forget how much fun it actually is to develop your own company.
All it takes is to concentrate on what excites you most, and make the repetitive tasks, weighing down on you, automatic.

A company's work should be fast, easy and smooth.
We share this belief. We've been streamlining, optimising and automatising everyday business by means of dedicated IT systems for more than ten years now.

How can we help you improve your company?
